2011 Harper Roadshow in Greensboro, North Carolina is Quickly Approaching

Charlotte, North Carolina, August 16, 2011—Global anilox roll supplier Harper Corporation of America is still registering participants for the Greensboro, North Carolina stop on its 2011 Roadshow event. The Greensboro event, which is hosted by the Harper GraphicSolutions Division, will be held on Thursday, August 25, 2011 and any flexographic professional in the area not yet registered is encouraged to sign up.

The Roadshow will provide a variety of information, including numerous seminars that will speak to the new technologies and practices of the industry. Over the course of the event, participants will have the opportunity to attend classes concerning: standardization, anilox cleaning, flexo plates, mounting tapes, inks and coatings, and measurement systems.

Each class will be presented by leading professionals in the flexographic industry, including: Paul Teachout from Harper Corporation, Johnny Stamey from Daetwyler, Mike Potter from FlexoWash, Tom Cassano from MacDermid, Larry Goldberg from Beta Industries, David Watson from Tesa Tape, and Kurt Hudson from Actega WIT.

The Harper Roadshow is a national event that has already taken place in Chesterfield, Missouri; Cincinnati, Ohio; Green Bay, Wisconsin; and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. After presenting its valuable information at the Greensboro event, the Roadshow will also take place in Worcester, Massachusetts on September 4 and Dallas, Texas on September 26.

The event is free and includes lunch. Interested professionals are encouraged to register soon, as it will take place next week.

The Roadshow will be held at the Holiday Inn on 6426 Burnt Poplar Road, Greensboro, North Carolina, 27409.
