DuPont Packaging Announces Call for Entries for 24th DuPont Awards for Packaging Innovation

DuPont Packaging Announces Call for Entries for 24th DuPont Awards for Packaging Innovation

Seeking Breakthroughs in Packaging Innovation, Sustainability and Waste/Cost Reduction

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 26, 2011 - DuPont Packaging announced today the call for entries in the 24th DuPont Awards for Packaging Innovation, the industry's longest running, independently judged competition.

"Needs for improved sustainability and cost/waste reduction are the key drivers for packaging innovation today," said Shanna Moore, global director of sustainability - DuPont Packaging. "We look forward to entries that demonstrate excellence in addressing these issues. In order to share learnings about how companies are innovating in response to these needs, we will once again conduct a global online event featuring our winners, who also will be honored in a celebration event with senior DuPont executives."

The prestigious international jury panel for the 24th DuPont Awards will be headed by Brian Wagner, vice president, PTIS (a HAVI Global Solutions Direct Company). Entries will be evaluated for excellence in packaging innovation, sustainability and cost /waste reduction. Entry forms and guidelines are available at www.packaging.dupont.com. The deadline for entries is Feb. 24, 2012.

Packaging designers, converters, consumer goods producers, retailers and equipment manufacturers from around the world are encouraged to enter their new packaging developments. There is no fee for entry and DuPont materials do not need to be in the packaging structure. In evaluating entries, jurors will consider
