PAMARCO EXPANDING SALES AND MANUFACTURING TEAM

October 2, 2018 - Pamarco is pleased to announce the continued expansion of their global manufacturing and technical sales team. Focused on growth since its birth in 1946, Pamarco continues to push forward into the future, leveraging product technology and investments in the talented people necessary for its continued growth. The company is extending their service capabilities in Latin America, Europe, and North America. The addition of new positions within the company serve to strengthen its well-established place in a growing packaging marketplace.

In Latin America, Hector Gamboa will join Pamarco as a Technical Sales Engineer with responsibility for continuing their track record of growth. With a proven record, Hector is committed to the highest levels of technical support and service.

In Europe, Anne Lander whom started her professional career at Pamarco has taken on the position of Technical Sales Manager for Pamarco Europe, joining their Warrington team.

Roger Schisel has joined Pamarco as Atlanta Production Manager. Roger brings extensive hands-on technical skills, coupled with experience and dedication to Lean Manufacturing disciplines.

Pamarco is pleased to introduce these three talented people into new positions and excited to see the impact they will make.
